Verification of Immunization against Streptococcus Equi
(Strangles)

Strep Equi is a bacterial disease which is extremely contagious and debilitating, sometimes fatal. Even though we have never had a case of strangles on our farm, we routinely vaccinate due to the number of horses we see each year. IMMUNIZATION IS NOT REQUIRED BUT HIGHLY RECOMMENDED to reduce the chances of your horses contracting this disease.

Current vaccines are very safe and much less reactive than those sold in the past. Please consult your farm veterinarian on the pros and cons of vaccinating. If you decide to vaccinate, we recommend the last injection, or semi-annual booster, be administered 4 to 6 weeks before you ship your horse.

If you decide not to vaccinate for Strep, please sign this form in acknowledgement that you understand the risk in not doing so.

I hereby certify that _____ name of horse (s)

Has had the following injections against Streptococcus equi (Strangles):

First injection date _____ Semi annual booster date _____

Second injection date _____ Intranasal administration date:

Third injection date _____
(for Strepvax II vaccine)
